Issue 636 - JANUARY 2024
TRADITION ONE: A
PATHWAY TO UNITY

Happy New Year Everyone!

This is the start of the second year of my commitment, and I am ready to get started. As the chair of the General Service Conference Committee on Policy and Admissions, I have the privilege of attending Board weekend at the end of the month. I have not received an updated list of proposed agenda items and was told the final list will be decided during Board weekend and should be available shortly after.

I did receive a communication from GSO regarding Bill W.'s writings and was tasked with speaking to the members of Area 49 to try to develop a group conscious on what should or should not be done. With that in mind, I have scheduled multiple sharing sessions where any A.A. member can attend. The suggested questions are posted on our website along with the dates, times and virtual meeting information. This is an opportunity for us to come together and discuss this issue which has been a very hot topic around the U.S. and Canada. During the conference there will be a sharing session where the delegates will share their Area's opinions and suggestions.

The lottery for 2024 NERAASA is in full swing. The email blast went out with the link to register. I invite registered trusted servants to click the link. The deadline is January 18. NERAASA is a wonderful event for any A.A. member to attend and I encourage GSR's DCM's or any other general service trusted servant who has not attended yet to come and see what you are missing. Last year there were over 1,000 attendees at NERAASA, and I am hoping for a better turnout for 2024.

Delegate's Day of Sharing is scheduled for March 2, 2024. It will be a short turnaround from receiving the final list of agenda items and the background material which was promised by February 23rd so we will have to be on our toes. I will also have virtual agenda item sharing sessions like I did for the 73rd General Service Conference. I would strongly encourage GSR's to talk to your group in advance to ask for a separate business meeting to go over the delegates questionnaire. The pre-conference assembly will be on April 6th and the conference starts on April 14.

Lastly, I want to encourage everyone to attend our 2024 SENY Convention which will be from March 15-17th at the Westchester Marriot in Tarrytown NY. We had over 1200 attendees for 2023 and of course I would love to see that number go up. There are many committees that could use your help and it's a great way to give back to a fellowship that saved our lives. I really hope to see you there!

Jo Ann M., Delegate Area 49

Tradition One: A Pathway to Unity

Another Traditions article. Are you excited? I definitely am. If you don't care about the Traditions, don't worry; I didn't care about them until I had been through all 12 steps and cared about the future of AA. You know that's what the Traditions are? The 12 points to assure AA's future.

There's a simple analogy that I like about the Traditions and why we should care. Imagine that you're a goldfish. You're happily swimming in your bowl living an awesome life. The water is like the steps. It keeps you alive. However, the fishbowl is like the Traditions. It keeps the water in place, just like the Traditions keep the place where we practice the steps in place. Every time we break a Tradition, it's like a crack in the fishbowl. If we put too many cracks in the bowl, it breaks. The water would go everywhere, and the fish would flip flop until it dies.

There's no AA without unity. If there's no AA, then I have nowhere to go to hear and give the message. Sure, I could try to be like Bill and Bob and seek out individual alcoholics, but I'm not sure I'm that willing in all honesty. My life is really full so my brain would likely come up with plenty of excuses to not go to the same lengths that Bill and Bob did. So, I am very interested in preserving the unity of AA as we have it today because doing AA today is very easy. Maintaining AA and its unity is the much easier and softer way.

This Tradition is all about emphasizing that unity needs to be my number one priority. How we maintain that unity is what the rest of the Traditions are about. I sacrifice my wants and my ego in order to preserve the unity of AA. That does NOT mean that what I think and want doesn't matter in AA. It matters a lot. It just matters a little less than preserving unity. I think of it like this—in my individual life, I have to put AA above everything else, including my family. That does not mean that I don't value my family, it just means that I know I will lose them if I don't put AA first. The same thing applies to the unity of AA. We will lose anything that we place before the unity of AA because every time I put myself first, I put another little crack in that fishbowl. That's why I care about the Traditions and this Tradition in particular. I want AA to be around for me and for anyone who needs it.

Tradition One: A Pathway to Unity

Did you ever really read Tradition One?? “Our” individual sobriety depends on the group. This Tradition sets the tone for the remaining eleven. If my house is not in order, how can I possibly think I will be able to help another? I am but a small part of a big piece of fabric – forever being woven into another piece of fabric.... tying us together as one – helping each other stay on that limb. That limb that we are all on and then here I come with my crazy and a saw (ha)...looking to saw off the limb with all of US on it. We would certainly die! Letting go of myself in order to help another live, that’s what it is all about. I was told that the Traditions were in place to protect the group from me. Well, that’s true! I sometimes can come up with some bright ideas (oh, how selfish I can be) and then I can also get an attitude (self-righteous) – depending on my spiritual condition of course. That’s why I must always keep GOD and AA first and try to remain right size.

Tradition One: A Pathway to Unity

It was hard for me to say I had a problem with alcohol, but even harder to ask others for help. A big part of sobriety is being able to put my ego aside and trusting others. In order to truly trust another person I would have to stop thinking that I run the show and realize that we need to run the show together. Such is the group. If a single person of Alcoholics Anonymous can try to run a group on their own and declare themselves the owner, there’s a good chance the group will fail. The same is true if I believe I can stay sober on my own. It takes a group of people with the same purpose - to stay sober.

Having accepted I have a problem and we are all here for the same reason, the next question for me became, “How can I help spread this purpose?” Simple. Keeping the doors open by working with my group members. This in turn will help me keep my sobriety. Yes, I have a sponsor, but with a homegroup it’s as if I have many sponsors in one place. They help to keep me in check and trust me, they will definitely know if you aren’t yourself.

If I continue to put the group first and listen to the suggestions of fellow members in a respectful manner (yes, even at business meetings!) I am putting insurance on my own sobriety. Tradition One reminds me to put my foolish thinking aside, practice love & tolerance, and to protect the group and the gift of A.A. at all costs. Without a place to call home, that only leaves me one option - back to the streets.

We Stick Together or We Die

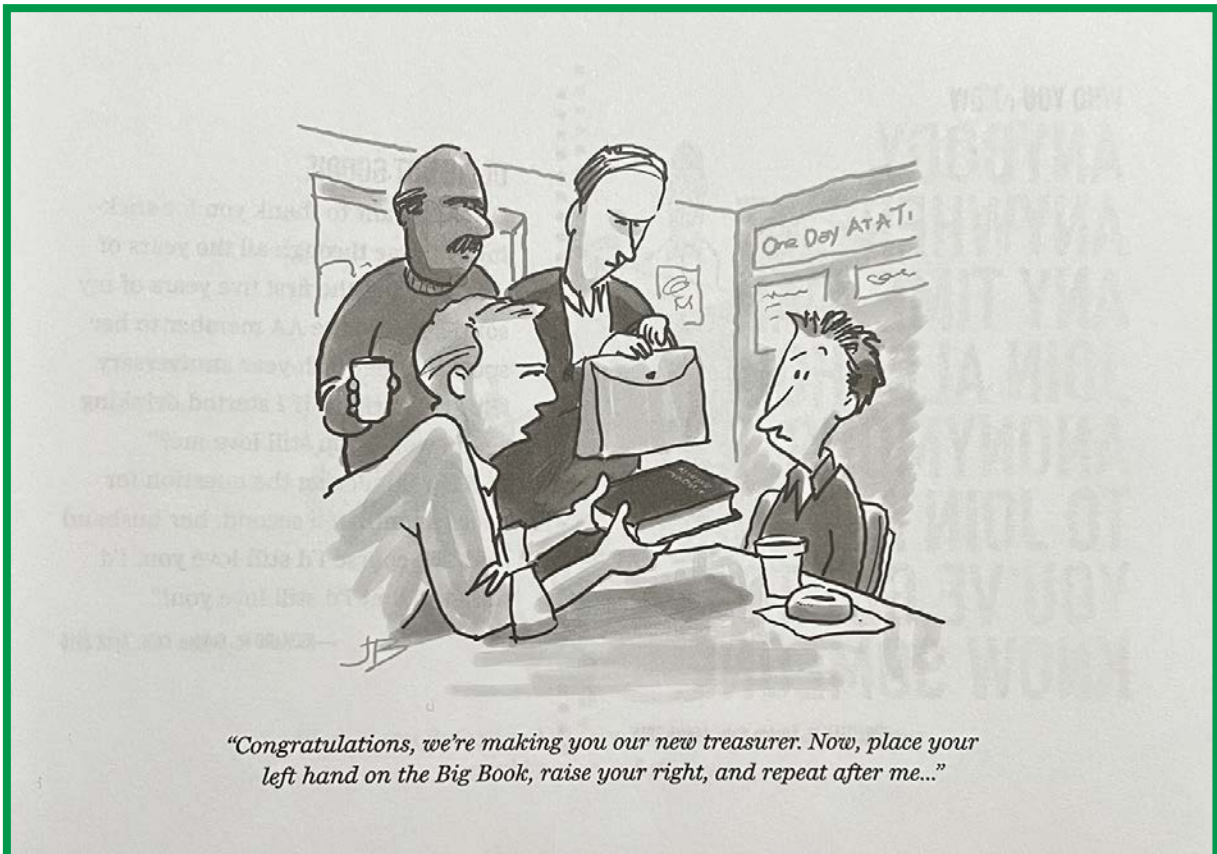

I remember the first time that I understood unity. I had finally achieved the requisite sobriety time to become chair of my home group. I was so excited. My sponsor was also a member so I knew she would keep me on the beam and not let my ego run wild. I learned to listen and listened to learn. By listening to the experience, strength, and hope of others, I learned that I was not expected to have an opinion on their share. Also, no one asked me what I thought which was humbling. Then something occurred.

A member was being disruptive at our meeting. This went on for some time. Then, in the midst of a share, the disruption brought us to our breaking point. The issue came up at the next business meeting. What were we going to do about this issue? The members discussed Tradition 1 and our common welfare. Are we creating a safe meeting space? Is the message of recovery being heard? Are we enabling this behavior? What is considered proper behavior? Who are we but just a bunch of drunks? Our solution became a small “t” tradition: we would have a trusted servant (in the spirit of rotation) gently and loving address the disruption. That way it did not seem like one person was always THE person managing the situation.

This experience made me examine my personal relationships. Am I creating a space where there is balance, harmony, love, and trust? I realized at that point that though I was sober, I needed to do better. In order for us to be of support to one family member or friend, we needed to have a common language.

Bill W. writes that we have to be vigilant. We have to work to maintain unity, or we will die. We often hear in the rooms that Step 1 is the only step we have to get 100%. We also need to get Tradition 1 100% for without it, the rest of the traditions are naught.
